DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

- specie 1 = a MR effect element comprising a synthetic second ferromagnetic layer (i.e. first ferromagnetic film/antiferromagnetic coupling film/second ferromagnetic film) and a pair of electrodes and longitudinal biasing layers;
- specie 2 = MR effect element comprising a MR effect-improving layer and a non-magnetic underlayer or protective layer; and
- specie 3 = MR effect element comprising a synthetic second ferromagnetic layer as described above and a high-conductive material layer, an upper shield and a lower shield.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claims are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

2. No telephone call was made to applicants due to the complexity of the restriction requirement.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

3. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Examiner's Comments

4. The Examiner notes that claim 29 appears to be missing the clause "ferromagnetic films coupled to one another and an" after "first and second" on line 7 (see claim 31).
5. The Examiner would appreciate if applicants' could provide some guidance as to what is meant by the "inner edges" of the biasing layers and electrode layers, specifically with respect to the claim language "said inner edges of the pair of electrodes disposed between the inner edges of the pair of longitudinal biasing layers". The Examiner is unclear exactly what structure applicants' are intending to claim.
6. The Examiner would also appreciate some guidance as to what is meant by the limitation "a metal element of not solid solution with a metal element of the first ferromagnetic layer" in claim 30. The Examiner's understanding of a "solid solution" means an alloy, so the claim appears to be claiming that the one of the plurality of metal films disposed in contact with the first ferromagnetic layer contains a metal element but is not alloyed with the first ferromagnetic layer, yet this seems to be obvious since the layers are separate. The Examiner would appreciate clarification of what the claim limitation is attempting to cover, preferably including citations to applicants' specification.
